

CALL FOR PAPERS

The 10th Conference of the Media Psychology Division
September 6 – 8, 2017

www.mediapsychology2017.com

The 10th Conference of the Media Psychology Division of the German Psychological Society will take place from September 6th to 8th, 2017, at the University of Koblenz-Landau in Landau, Germany. The division as well as the local organizers (Markus Appel, Tobias Rothmund and Uli Gleich) cordially invite you to come to Landau.

Researchers from all areas of media psychology and neighboring disciplines are invited. We welcome contributions on a broad range of topics that exemplify the importance and impact of mediated communication in its various forms.

The conference will be held in English. We will be happy about German as well as international participants and contributors.

The conference program will include keynote presentations, a roundtable discussion and a science slam. As part of the social program the conference dinner will be held at a local winery.

SUBMISSIONS

You can submit the following contributions:

- Position papers (extended abstract of 1000 words)
- Research papers (500 word abstract including results)
- Posters (500 word abstract)
- Panel session proposals (4 contributions or 3 contributions plus one discussant; panel session proposals require a 500 word rationale for the panel and a 300-500 word abstract for each contribution)

For submitting please go to www.mediapsychology2017.com.

Deadline for submissions: March 8.

All submissions will be peer-reviewed. Each author may submit and present only one contribution as first author; additional contributions as co-author are welcome.

PhD WORKSHOP

The conference will be preceded by a Workshop for PhD students of Media Psychology, organised by Prof. Dr. Leonard Reinecke and Prof. Dr. Özen Odag. The workshop will take place on the first day of the conference (September 6th). A maximum of 12 doctoral students will be accepted. The application deadline is May 15th.
